

The University of Texas at Austin
LBJ Women's Campaign School
Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs

The inaugural class will be June 9-13 at the LBJ School of Public Affairs at UT Austin.

The program is bipartisan. We believe bipartisan learning promotes understanding and empathy, and builds a stronger democracy for everyone.

Applications are open now, and will close on April 19.

The cost to attend is $750. There are scholarships available based on financial need. If you want to serve your community in the political arena, we won't let the cost stop you.

The LBJ Women's Campaign School trains women to run for office or manage campaigns regardless of political party affiliation. We inspire women to enter the political arena and empower them with the skills to succeed.

"You must do the thing you think you cannot do."
- Eleanor Roosevelt

Our nation demands women leaders. The LBJ Women's Campaign School is seeking dynamic, talented women who are ready to make a difference in our political process either by running for office or becoming campaign managers. From school boards to the U.S. Senate, we will prepare you to run in local, state, and federal elections.

Gain the network, resources and skills to succeed. Held at a top 10 nationally ranked policy school, the LBJ Women's Campaign School will provide unparalleled learning. Campaign school participants will learn to:

- Launch and announce a candidacy
- Craft and deliver a powerful message
- Improve public speaking and media relations
- "Make the ask" and develop effective fundraising strategies
- Navigate life on the campaign trail

If you are ready to run for office or manage a campaign, apply today!
